SYNOPSIS: ASSASSINATIONS: THE WORLD'S CLANDESTINE KILLER ELITE State terrorism to sophisticated intelligence services who "murder by a fall guy," [a relatively unknown and unacknowledged tactic,] are the general subjects of this book. The analysis of specific assassinations from a counter-intelligence point-of-view include Leon Trotsky, Archbishop Oscar Romero, Ambassador Otto Dubs, Ambassador John Mein, Pope John Paul II, John F. Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr. The book is a counterintelligence examination of assassinations which were never fully investigated, and some not at all. Of importance, but disregarded by investigative authorities, was the assassination of U.S. Ambassador Otto Dubs in Afghanistan which provided clues behind President Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr.'s assassinations. For example, because of careless talk by two Afghan interrogators, we learned the KGB developed an assassination technique which left them publicly blameless while "a fall guy" holds the smoking gun. Kennedy's assassination is a case in point, but while a great deal has been written about the assassination of King, it was amazingly never investigated by the police once they had identified James Earl Ray. Subsequently, after meeting with Ray, the King family publicly announced it was not Ray who killed King. What emerges importantly from an intelligence analysis of King's assassination on the balcony of the Lorraine Motel is the assassination was not possible without the information and help from someone inside King's small entourage. It was a startling discovery.
