Umberto Rodriguez is smart, hard-working, and strong. Unfortunately, he was born on the wrong side of the border.

Mexico is in chaos. The government's war on drugs has provoked a bloody power struggle between the nation's most ruthless cartels. In less than a decade, more than 100,000 people have been murdered.

If Umberto's going to stay alive, he needs to get out of Mexico. And if he's going to live well, the U.S. offers him his greatest chance. But crossing the border means surviving one of the harshest environments on Earth: a desert filled with sophisticated border control agents and lawless vigilantes who hunt men for sport.

He needs a 'coyote'—a guide—and El Topo is the best guide in the business. But El Topo has a dark past, and hidden motives. Walking with him will plunge Umberto into the very heart of the struggle he's trying to escape.

Can Umberto make the crossing, or is he doomed to become another tragic border statistic?

This 40-page story is the first part of the Border Zone Drug Ballad series. It can be read on its own as a standalone title.
